From the NAACP National Office:

First of all, what is most important to communicate to your members is that the priority must be to cast your ballot in a safe manner. Voter intimidation is illegal under federal and Pennsylvania law. That means any activity that "threatens, harasses or intimidates voters, including any activity that is intended to, or has the effect of, interfering with any voter's right to vote, whether ... outside ... or inside the polling place is illegal."

Voters' personal safety must be the first concern. If a voter feels intimidated at a polling place, they should inform the poll worker and/or the election officials at the polling place. If there is voter intimidation on the way to the polling place, or in other settings, local law enforcement should be called. We also encourage everyone to both call 866-Our-Vote and file a report with the NAACP to report the incident once they are in safe place to do so.
