Happy Holidays

Dear NAACP Units and Executive Committee,

For those who celebrate Christmas, we enter a special time of hope. We can all acknowledge that 2020 was a year like we have never before experienced. It has been a year of challenge, frustration, and for many a year of great loss while for others a year of great need.

It is my hope that those of you who are currently fighting COVID-19, have a speedy recovery. For others, please continue to be vigilant in practicing safety measures to minimize contracting the disease.

As we come closer to entering 2021, I want to remind you even though we will be leaving this difficult year of 2020, we will very much need to be prepared to do the work of NAACP in the new year. There is much to do! My request is:

Have faith, that the work begun in 2020 will bear fruit in 2021;

Believe, that the good works done by you as individuals and as units will need to continue to overcome the challenges of 2020;

Be Kind to one another, because this type of encouragement will unify rather than create discourse; and

In safety, spend time with family by contacting them and letting them know how much you love them. Get much needed rest and take care of yourselves. Enjoy this holiday season as we prepare for the New Year.

Kenneth L. Huston, President
